CONTINUATION SHEET (KHC 2014-1)

This one-and a half story frame cottage was constructed by H. Moran circa 1945. The cottage is clad in false brick rolled asphalt and rests on concrete block piers. The facade is defined by a one-story front porch supported on unelaborated round columns. The porch has a continuous concrete block foundation wall. The porch shelters the front entry through a one-light wood panel door with wooden screen door. A single 1/1 double-hung window is situated to the left (east) of the doorway. A single wood casement lights the upper half story on this elevation. The west elevation has a slight eave overhang and features a single wood casement window near its SW corner. This window lights the kitchen area.

The rear (south) elevation has two wooden casement windows. One is situated near the gable and lights the upper half-story and the other is located near this elevation's SW corner and lights the kitchen area. The east elevation has a single side entry door with metal hood located at its SE corner. This door is a wood panel door with a wood screen door.

The cottage's interior has two rooms. The front entry door provides access into the sitting room/bedroom space. This room has carpeted floors and wallpapered walls and ceiling. Behind this room is a kitchen/dining space. The kitchen has linoleum flooring and gypsum board walls and ceiling. A wooden stair that leads to the second half-story is wedged between these rooms.

The second half-story was used as a sleeping space. This area has an open ceiling with unpainted wooden structural members and wooden flooring covered with oil cloths. Some of the structural elements may have originally have been whitewashed. A portion of the ceiling is clad with gypsum board. The walls also feature exposed wooden structural elements.
